Shrewsbury Junior-Senior High School
Shrewsbury, Massachusetts

Dedication

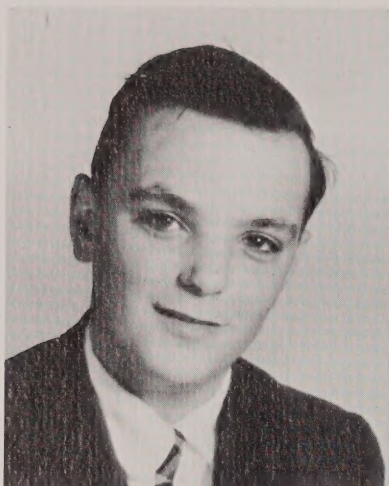

It is a most coveted honor to be chosen as the recipient of the yearbook dedication. This year, the class of 1964 wishes to dedicate the "Colonial" to Mr. Theodore Lekas, teacher of history, informative educator, energetic friend. His capable hand has guided many a student, his determined will and undaunted purpose have established for him a special place in the hearts of all students. He has shown, since his first appearance at Shrewsbury High School in 1959, that his first purpose is academic enrichment and his second, mutual companionship. To Theodore Lekas we proudly dedicate our yearbook. We are honored that a man of such individual character and singular intelligence gives his time and patience to the education of youth.

Mr. Theodore Lekas

In Memoriam

MICHAEL L. POLSELL
November 10, 1946—October 18, 1961

There is no death, the stars go down,
To rise upon some other shore.
And bright in heaven's jewelled crown
He'll shine forever more.

He is not dead! he hath but passed
Beyond the mists that blind us here
Into a new and larger life
Of that serener sphere.

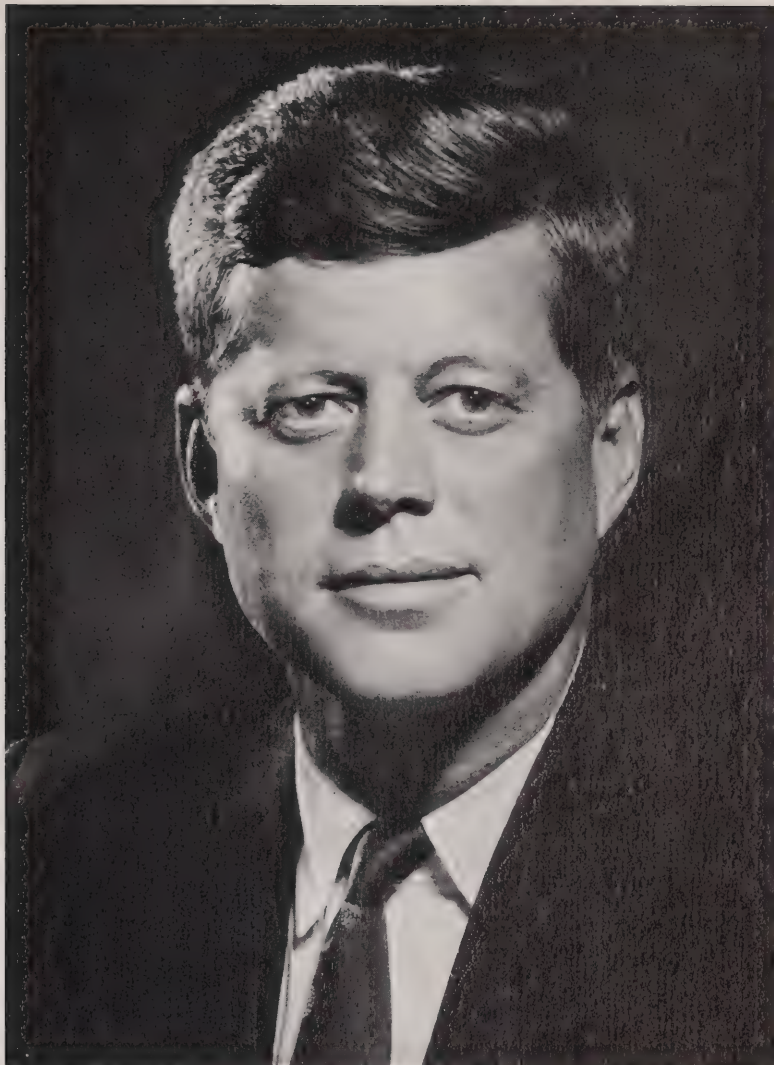

KAREN A. JOHNSON
November 10, 1946—March 17, 1959

Her suffering ended with the day,
Yet lived she at its close,
And breathed the long, long night away
In statue-like repose.

But when the sun in all his state
Illumed the eastern skies,
She passed through Glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise!

The will of God is exercised in strange and mysterious ways which are many times difficult for friends and loved ones to understand. Such was the case when we learned of the deaths of our classmates, Michael and Karen. They were true friends and loyal companions of the Class of 1964. They will always be remembered in our thoughts and prayers as we feel certain that they have achieved their eternal reward of peace and happiness. Herein we wish to perpetuate their memory.

This Nation, Under God

"In the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger. I do not shrink from this responsibility—I welcome it. I do not believe that any of us would exchange places with any other people or any other generation. The energy, the faith, the devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it—and the glow from that fire can truly light the world.

And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country. My fellow citizens of the world: ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for the freedom of man."

Guidance Department

"May I change my schedule? Should I go on to college?" Questions as varied as these confront the Guidance counselors daily. But with calmness and insight, students are advised, schedules are arranged and re-arranged, problems are solved and questions are answered. Guidance is needed by the harried freshmen; guidance is needed by the troubled seniors. The Guidance department is always there, ready and willing to wipe away the traces of indecision in the high school mind.

English Department

The English language has risen from all key points of society as the most important tool in our modern life. The growth of this tool must originate at the point where it can be developed most effectively. It is through study in high schools such as Shrewsbury that a necessary command of the language is obtained. The English Department, realizing the need for speaking and writing ability, endeavors to create a student adeptness in these areas. Creative writing, research work, dramatic projects, and speech programs expand the background, encouraging originality. This department stimulates the student to develop an art which he will use every day of his life.

Mathematics - the door to the future

In this nuclear age, an urgent call has been nationally sounded for more and finer mathematicians. The alert Mathematics Department has answered this call with admirable vigor, as proven by the advanced and scientifically oriented mathematics curriculum. Organized mathematical principles and problems are presented to the student. Ample tools are given him in the intangible, yet evident, forms of intelligent class discussion and homework. Friendly guidance provides an impetus to individual initiative. Fittingly, the Mathematics Department instills a feasible sense of reasoning and logic into the student.

Science the language of the twentieth century

Today's world is such that science is knowledge and knowledge is power. Now more than ever, society has passed to the secondary schools the heavy responsibility of instilling in students the crucial knowledge that will one day guide our nation. The Science Department of Shrewsbury High has taken sizable strides forward to better fulfill this obligation. Specialized training, coupled with patience, helps the student to grasp complex ideas in the classroom. Abundant and varied laboratory experiences permit the student to prove and observe basic scientific concepts.

A thinker's haven, the Science Department seeks to lift the fog of confusion from young minds, replacing it with understanding and a healthy curiosity.

The responsibility of maintaining our democratic society lies on the youths of our country. Through a comprehensive study of our past heritage, of the problems of the world, and of the development of a free society, the Social Studies Department at Shrewsbury has successfully prepared its students for intelligent participation as future citizens of America. There is a growing number of problems threatening the freedom of American citizens. With professional training given by the Social Studies Department, the youths at Shrewsbury will be successful in helping to maintain liberty in America.

Latin

At Shrewsbury High the barriers common to most of the world are broken down as haunting whispers waft out of the language classrooms. From the lab period to the test day, students find it stimulating to attempt the mastery of a second language. The school has provided the most modern equipment and best-trained teachers. The able student finds the opportunity to advance as far as he wishes. The language student emerges confident and better able to converse with the world's people.

Music - a form of speech

Orchestra

Music conveys feelings and emotions. The world of music is truly a world unto itself—a world into which all of us can step. For music gives pleasure to the participants as well as to the listeners. Shrewsbury's Music Department has expanded tremendously. Through participation in the band, the orchestra, or the glee club, the student is given an opportunity to learn, to understand, to rehearse, and, finally, to perform for the public. Here the student functions as an integral part of a group where each must make his own effort.

Music is a means of self expression; music can speak, in its own way, to enrich the listeners. It is truly a unique form of communication. Shrewsbury owes much to its Music Department for its fine concert productions. The earnest practising of the students, however, is only in part a contributing factor to this success; for, much rests with the talent, the teaching, and the patience of the music directors themselves. In this respect, Shrewsbury has been very fortunate, having had the unexcelled leadership of Mr. Lorne Ford, Mr. Robert Narducci, and Mr. Louis Vella. The Music Department offers the student a chance for growth and development of talent for his own betterment and for the ultimate enrichment of all people.

Art - the product of creative minds

Miss Nancy Massey

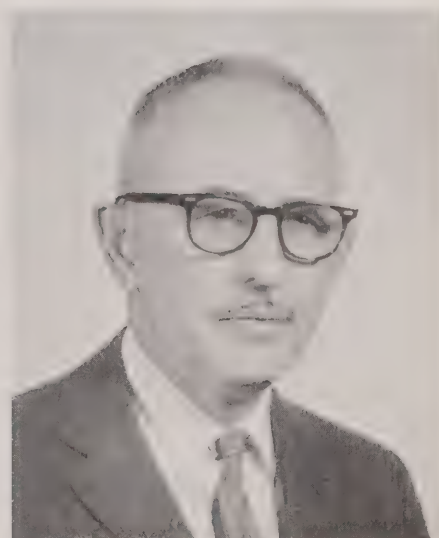

An Art Display

The Art Department seeks to develop by drawing, painting, sculpturing and weaving, the dormant talents of the high school student. By individual application, each artistic aspirant puts forth work of his own creation, thus expressing himself in a way which everyone can admire and only a few can duplicate. The artist is a creative, thinking individual, constantly looking for new and better ways to improve and express himself in his work. The Art Department of Shrewsbury High School capably guides, evaluates, and constructively criticizes the products of talented hands and minds. In this way, the student can make his creations effective, vivid, and imaginative.

Business - keeps economic order

The Business Department serves a dual purpose: to give the students a general understanding of the business world, and to prepare them for a vocational career. It offers opportunities to qualified students for job placement. Among its many features include the up-to-date machine equipment which is available to students.

Each day in countless classrooms, shorthand students put down curves and hooks; bookkeeping students calculate debits, credits, and balances. Numerous sheets of paper are filed under proper headings. The machines give a constant hum daily; the typewriters strike their way to completion. Each day ends with a forward look into the business world.

Athletics - builds strong bodies

The academic part of school life develops the mind, but hand in hand with academics comes athletics—development of the body.

Home Economics Department

In recent years, the Home Economics Department has finally emerged from the sidelights into the spotlight. Enthusiastic and versatile students have proven that the trial-and-error method is perhaps the backbone of a good education. As the home is the basic stepping-stone of man, the Homemaking Department helps prepare and place the stones. Beneficial, local training, such as that received in Homemaking classes, will serve as a polish separating today's carefree teenager, from tomorrow's radiant woman.

Activities

Activities are the mainstay of extra-curricular high school life. In club organizations, students gain ideas and opinions through the effective means of discussion and communication, while pursuing personal enjoyment. Learning and fun are equally balanced. These, in turn, mold individuals into better suited and more knowledgeable members of their respective classes.

"That action is best which procures the greatest happiness for the greatest numbers."

the Students

Senior Student Council members are Bob Kilroy, Joel Ponte, Barbara Burns, John Ponte, Wendy Lundgren.

The Student Council forms the connective link between the administration and the student body. Each year members of the respective classes elect fellow classmates as representatives to weekly Council meetings. Headed by Barbara Burns, the Council works in the interest of the entire student body. This year, with the help of advisor Mr. Henry Sullivan, the Council has conducted charity collections and has sponsored many other worthwhile programs. Recently members of the Shrewsbury High Student Council attended conventions to become acquainted with new people and ideas from other parts of the state and the nation. The participants in our student government today might be our congressmen tomorrow.

The youths of today are tomorrow's leaders. It is the purpose of the National Honor Society to recognize and encourage these potential leaders. Each year, outstanding members of the Junior and Senior classes who show the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service are awarded great praise for their efforts by being given membership in the National Honor Society. The members of N.H.S. are students with ability and creativeness who support and uphold the many and varied activities of their school. Their greatest reward is the self-satisfaction received from rendering service and guidance to the members of their class, as well as to their community.

The sounds of spirituals, marches, and current classics echo throughout the halls of S.H.S. daily. This music is the product of the Band, a hard-working organization of talented student musicians. Bright blue and gold uniforms provide a suitable background for Band music, and symbolize Shrewsbury High spirit from the gridiron to the concert hall. There are many facets to that word, talent. The Band develops a very important and a most enjoyable one.

Oh! those morning practices!

Orchestra

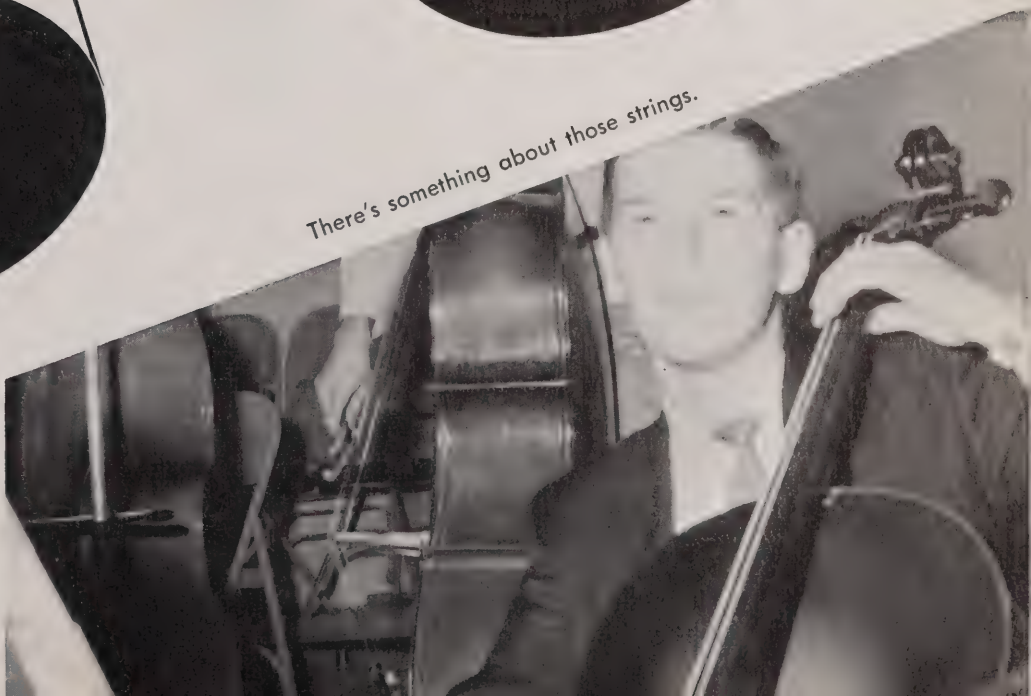

The Orchestra is involved in many of the events of the school year. The members of this group have worked all year for their various performances—the Christmas concert, National Honor Installation, and Graduation. In addition, the Orchestra combined with the Weston School orchestra to present a concert.

Each member has spent hours in rehearsal time, working to improve their individual and group performances, striving to better their musical standards.

Mr. Narducci, the capable conductor, has also worked constantly, perhaps more than any of the students, as a teacher, manager, and friend.

By combining their efforts, conductor and players produce the magic that is music.

Glee Club

The Glee Club is that organization where vocal talents are recognized and encouraged. Under the direction of Mr. Louis Vella, the Glee Club performs at all concerts as well as special occasions and assemblies. In its daily classes, this group seeks to associate students with all types of music from Thompson to Bach, as well as developing the basic music techniques of sight-reading, pitch and tone qualities, and correct breath control. The A Cappella Choir, an offspring of the eighty voice Glee Club, performs madrigal and more specialized pieces. Members of unusual talent audition for solo parts. Each year the Glee Club sends successfully auditioned students to the Central Massachusetts District Chorus and from there to Massachusetts All-State. The Glee Club is one of Shrewsbury's most outstanding music groups, and most assuredly a credit to the school.

The chief objective of the Homemaking Club is to excite greater enthusiasm in the art of domestic organization among its young members. The girls gain much satisfaction while learning the techniques of improving personal, family, and community life. Some of the activities of the Homemaking Club include participating in civic projects and sponsoring guest speakers. The members of the club, who will soon be our future homemakers, are now gaining invaluable information through group participation.

Le Cercle Francais

"Etudiez-vous le francais?" French grammar is but a very small aspect of studying the language, which has always been regarded with a romantic air. The French Club aims at transferring the clinical study of French into a useful and interesting practice. The monthly meetings are varied and always seem to end on a comical note. This year, Papa Noel visited the December meeting and, in traditional French fashion, filled the shoes of the French Club members with some goodies. At other meetings, the members learned French customs and sampled French pastries. These very obviously entertaining activities serve to make French students more aware of the people whose language they speak. Of course, at the end of the year, the students are put to the real test when they must order (in French) their meals at the annual banquet held at Le Petie Auberge.

Latin Club

With Caesar as a model, and "Veni, Vidi, Vici" as a moral, how can this club miss? Latin, although renowned as a "dead" language, is brought to life in the Latin Club. Activities are so constituted as to better acquaint the student with Roman customs and government.

As Rome wasn't built in a day, neither is a language learned easily. But the formation of such clubs as this spur the student to learn, and help him to learn it.

La Sociedad Espanola

The true spirit of Spain finds its way into S.H.S. through La Sociedad Espanola. The study of a language is not complete, nor does it end, in the classroom. To understand the people native to a country is to understand the language. The Spanish Club seeks to bring the people, their customs, their feelings, and their attitudes to its members. This past year, Christmas was celebrated in the Spanish spirit with a party complete with a "pinata". Members also had an opportunity to view the gay and lively dances of the Spaniards when the organization went to Boston to see the famous Jose Greco. In each of its activities, La Sociedad Espanola endeavors to bring its members into closer familiarity with the vivacious and romantic language which they study.

National Forensic League

He who can express himself, usually attains his goal. The N.F.L. endeavors to give its members, through its activities, a command of oral expression. The national organization has charter members throughout the country which abide by the same rules of order established at the office of the national secretary. Students may become members of the society by earning an initial twenty-five points in the speech events of their choice. The points are placed on the records at the national office and accumulate so that the student may earn degrees which allow him greater voting power.

Shrewsbury has maintained a consistently high record in interscholastic competition. Aside from the many gold medal winners at the Massachusetts State Speech Festival, Shrewsbury has had students qualify the school as New England debate champion, and the school has been represented at the national tournaments in San Francisco, Pittsburg, and Houston.

In order to finance trips to various localities, N.F.L. engages in several projects which highlight the school year. The band would surely miss the coffee and doughnuts sold at the football games; and, Spring would certainly lose some of its sparkle without the annual sale of N.F.L. daffodils. To climax the year, there is the N.F.L. banquet which satisfies the appetites and fun-loving spirit of every individual. Never forget that wassail!—does Miss Churchill have the recipe?

SHOMTY is a club sponsored by the business department. The requirement for membership is that a student take at least two business subjects of the many available to them.

The purposes of the club are to promote leadership and to teach the members to serve their community to the best of their ability. This is shown by their annual Christmas basket given to a needy family in Shrewsbury.

Under the direction of Mrs. Belanger and Mrs. Strand, the club has been very active. The program consists of money-raising projects including a food sale, a spring card and stationery sale, a stenotype machine demonstration, and guest speakers. The main social events are a reception for the new members at the beginning of the year and a banquet at the end of the year.

SHOMTY is certainly a growing club with many thoughts and ideas. Most of all, it benefits those concerned in the community.

Boys' Gym Leadership

Coached by Mr. Kleminich and Mr. Marchisio, Boy's Gym Leadership has become a club distinguished by its athletic prowess. The group, numbering approximately thirty this year, meets two homeroom periods, two afternoons, and two nights a week for practice. Each member is expected to be familiar with the fundamentals of every apparatus, although he is encouraged to specialize in one or two.

During their free periods, the boys teach gym classes, supervised by one of the physical education instructors. They are trained to set good examples for the underclassmen.

On March 20, the athletic department presented a show in which both Boy's and Girl's Gym Leaders demonstrated various feats they had been working on since the beginning of the year.

After the Play

Making Up the Cast

"Quiet backstage!"—a command often heard on the set when Masque and Wig is under production with a new play. For centuries, drama has been an expression of man's emotions and sentiments. It is a means of presenting to an audience common experiences, whether they be humorous or dramatic, mysterious or tragic. Shrewsbury has, in the past two years, proven itself capable of producing truly professional productions. Under the able direction of our beloved Mrs. Dorothy Sargeant, Shrewsbury has won public acclaim for its drama.

Those who have served in the capacity of actor, student director, or stage crewmen have gained great insight into the work and pleasure entailed in producing a play. Students have also gained a greater understanding of others, since they must, when acting, place themselves in the place of others. The greatest sense of satisfaction for a job well done has come to many members of Masque and Wig as the final curtain closes on the applause from a delighted audience.

Through the services rendered by the members of the 020 Club, the library at SHS has become a symbol of efficiency. The girls in the organization have greatly aided the student body in the use of the library by becoming quite proficient in certain basic techniques. The numerous duties of the young librarians include checking, shelving and covering books, as well as card cataloging and filing. The services of the 020 Club go beyond the confines of the school library, however, for the proceeds of the annual Christmas cake sale are sent to the Worcester County Association for the Blind. While rendering their services to the organization, the 020 Club girls are gaining invaluable experience in working with others as well as in learning the complexities of Library Science.

A high school organization consisting of members elected from each homeroom, the Junior Red Cross strives to help people help themselves. Although an efficient working body within themselves, they could not exist without the cooperation of the student body. Activities begin each year with an Enrollment Drive and continue with several service projects including visits to hospitals at Christmas. Also on the agenda are the Children's Fund and the Red Cross Service Fund. In all endeavors the organization promotes the purpose of teaching youth to aid others. The training and responsibility which members receive here start them on the road to good citizenship.

Darkroom Club

Front Row: J Pappazasis, H. Steinhilber, R. Munson, D. Mangs. Second Row: Mr. William Donovan, (advisor), J. Doda, M. Bartlett, D. Horton, Miss Lois Litz (advisor).

Several boys meet daily or indulge in a favorite hobby-photography. The members of the Darkroom Club can be found throughout the school photographing common and not so common scenes and sequences for the Town Crier or for personal satisfaction. Aided by advisor, Mr. William Donovan, the boys hope to gain practice and knowledge needed for a professional career.

Athletics

Athletics at Shrewsbury are available on many different levels, ranging from intramural to varsity competition, each providing the student with an outlet for his skill as well as developing team spirit and good sportsmanship. There is indeed a needed emphasis on athletics, for growing minds are enhanced by strong, agile bodies.

Rud Porter takes "a Breather"

Football

With good sportsmanship as a watchword and success as a goal, the determined Colonials again marched down the path to victory. The road was muddy and drought-cracked, freezing and then stifling hot, and tiring. But it was never boring. And during this glorious march of sixteen weeks, minds were disciplined; bodies were strengthened; and good character was developed.

The frenzied cheering crowds are gone now; the stands are empty. But the minds and hearts of the stalwart football players are filled—forever—filled with unerasable memories of mud, sweat, tears, and victory.

Basketball

What price is victory? Is it honor? The Shrewsbury basketball team retorts a sharp number. They prove it in their current success, forged of courage and humility. Starting the season by winning their first eight games, the boys later slipped, but they made a startling comeback. Unvanquished in the face of defeat, undaunted in the heat of the game, unaffected in the face of victory, the Colonials played well throughout the entire season.

Baseball

With the advent of spring comes the inevitable ball and bat and the commencement of the baseball season. The training on the high school diamond today gives ample preparation for the big-league action of tomorrow. America's favorite sport may, indeed, lead to a professional career or a lifetime sport. The afternoon spirit of competition sidetracks frustrations while building strong bodies.

Cross Country

Every fall afternoon, our school witnesses a stampede of young men on the daily 2-or 2½-mile romp through the streets. These young men are not mad—they're our cross country team—commonly called harriers.

Cross Country requires dedication, stamina, and particularly intestinal fortitude. Unheralded and sometimes unheard of, our Cross Country team, ably coached by Mr. Klemnick, has fared well in interscholastic competition, and will continue to produce dedicated, unselfish athletes.

Last one back to school is a rotten egg.

Crew

The melting of the winter ice and snow and the coming of springtime make for sure signs that the crew and rowing season is at hand. Under the keen direction of Chief Kenneth Burns the crew whips into shape with long hours of practice rowing on the lake. The crew strives for perfection to the coxswain's strident cry Stroke! Stroke!

Making predictions is a hard profession but if competent coaching and the experience of a veteran crew are the elements of a successful sason, we may well have that kind of season this year.

Golf

Golf, one of the nation's most popular outdoor sports, has made its mark at Shrewsbury High. Loving the game beyond the prize, student golfers work diligently to master the sport. This mastery is illustrated in the Golf Team's fine performance at inter-scholastic golf meets. A kind of mutual aid society, the old members of the Club help the new to achieve skill in the sport. What is the Golf Team? It is sportsmanship, skill, and paradoxically, strenuous relaxation.

Track

Strength, speed, agility, and endurance are the apt words to describe the Shrewsbury High track team. Striving for perfection and victory, the team spends long hours after school practicing for the keen competition in the Central Massachusetts Conference. Relay, high jump, broad jump, and shot put are some of the events in which the Colonials show great promise. Possessing ability, stamina, and determination, the S.H.S. trackmen are sure to succeed in their undertakings.

Rud Porter makes his mark.

Girls' Basketball

The Team

Sylvia Bartlett (manager), Sue Hobbs, Kathy Keegan, Barbara Burns (co-captain), Jean Kehoe (co-captain), Judy Wall, Ruth Hobbs, Pat Crowe (manager).

With hopes riding high, the girls emerged onto the gym floor to begin the 1964 season. New strategies to confuse the opponents were in order and the excitement reached breathless heights in every competition. The girls were determined to spare no effort to merit the praise of their coach. For the Seniors the last game has been completed and they leave hopes to their successors.

Girls' Field Hockey

We Can't Win Them All

The scorepad was the cynosure of all eyes when the S.H.S. tunic-clad girls arrived on the field. At the sound of the whistle, win or lose, the girls made that supreme effort to achieve the glory of the victors. Fractured fingers, bruised shins, and tired bodies were very often the price paid for their efforts, but the girls remained undaunted.

For the Seniors, the whistle has sounded for the last time—the blue and gold uniforms are laid aside for next year's aspiring team. Now there remains the poignant memories of game thrills and excitement.

We'll have these frustrating moments to remember!

Yeah, team!

Satisfied!

All right girls, let's get together

"We're from Shrewsbury, couldn't be prouder!" These words, found in a standard cheer, seem to capture the boundless spirit of our dynamic cheerleaders. At pep rallies, in the corridors, and at games, the girls tirelessly promote spirit among the students, making them proud of their sports groups. And this same pride, spurs our football and basketball teams onward to victory.

Our cheerleaders are as their very name implies, true leaders. Stoicly they endure defeats, enthusiastically they laud victories. They inspire our teams, and are, in turn, inspired themselves. The student body agrees, you "trace the map" — and never find a group of girls poised, pretty, and peppy enough to beat our cheerleaders.

Seniors

All things have their season, and in their times all things pass under heaven. A time to be born and a time to die. A time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which has been planted. A time to kill, and a time to heal. A time to destroy, and a time to build. A time to weep, and a time to laugh. A time to mourn, and a time to dance. A time to scatter stones and a time to gather. A time to embrace, and a time to be far from embraces. A time to get, and a time to lose. A time to keep, and a time to cast away . . . A time to keep silent, and a time to speak. A time of love and a time of hatred. A time of war and a time of peace.

*How fine has the day been! How bright was the sun,
How lovely and joyful the course that he run!
Though he rose in a mist when his race he begun,
And there followed some droppings of rain:
But now the fair traveler's come to the west,
His rays are all gold, and his beauties are best;
He paints the skies gay as he sinks to his rest,
And foretells a bright rising again.*

We cling to one another; separating is indeed difficult. We are secure in our friendships. We have grown and prospered through our education. The time for our departure is here. We must, each of us, find our own special place in this world. We have had our preparation; the rest is up to us. We have walked to classes together for the last time. The end of our senior year brings to a close the unity of two hundred and five people, joined in laughter, joy, sorrow, frustrations, and loyalty. We are now ready to face the future. But somehow, we are filled with that certain emptiness, the emptiness of losing something very warm and wonderful. As the doors close behind us, we can look back with fondest memories and look ahead with greatest hope.

Supported by a strong foundation of education, guided by the bonds of eternal friendship, we must enter into another of life's many phases.

What the future will bring for each member of the class of nineteen hundred and sixty four, none of us can be sure.

Hail and Farewell

To lend a life to Youth has ever dared
The young of heart, and you were ever young!
The young of heart will live beyond today—
Live in the hearts of Youth, live in our memory.
Down through the years you shared Youth's fondest hopes;
You used Youth's world to lead it into yours;
You gave, that Youth might gain its world. You will Go with Youth down the years to light Youth's days.
And some of us remember through the years.
We give you greetings and an outstretched hand
Across the gulf of time. We say all hail
But not good-bye. Some greet you gladly
From today, a leader who has spent
His strength and courage in a wider world—
To drive that world to war against the dark
Of ignorance. And so we say to you
Fare well, but not good-bye. May all your hours
Be sunny; may you live, and love, and learn
The joy of leisure. May all good go with you.
May Youth live in you always. Hail and Fare you well.
